

Laboratory,
U.S. Naval Hospital,
St. Albans, L.E., N.Y.
18 January 1944.

My dear Prof. Keller:

Mr. Fox has no doubt informed you of my latterday difficulties over my English requirements. I enclose a copy of the letter that I have sent to Mr. Field. I would come up and try to iron this out personally at greater length, but at the moment I am a patient here with sinusitis, and don't rate liberty. I would appreciate it if you would inform Dr. Nobbe and Mr. Brown of my predicament. It was at their advice (I think) that I took Colloquium ... I hope this doesn't sound reproachful, I don't mean it that way. Hoping to see you soon,

Respectfully yours,

Joshua Lederberg.